

Going to the Hospital

The sliding door will open so I can walk in.

I have to check in at the desk.

I will ride in the elevator.

I will go to my room
while my parent signs papers.

I will walk to my room.

The nurse wants to see how tall I am.

I need to change my clothes.

The nurse will take my temperature.

The nurse will put a cuff around my arm
and give it a big hug.
It might feel like a squeeze. It won't hurt.

The nurse will put a light on my finger.

The nurse will listen to my heart.

I get to touch the mask.
It feels like a soft balloon.
It won't hurt.

I will practice putting the mask on my face.
It won't hurt.

The nurse will put on my bracelet.

The nurse will ask my parent lots of questions and type on the computer.

I may need to drink some medicine.

I will drink the medicine from a syringe.
There are no pokes and it won't hurt.

After I take my medicine,
I can drink soda.

I will meet the doctor.

They will ask a lot of questions, too.

They will listen to my heart.

I will meet the OR nurse.

They will check my bracelet and chart.

I will go for a ride on my bed.
I will stay on the bed and
I won't try to get off.

Time for hugs and kisses.

My parent can only go to the red line.

I will see my parent soon.

I will go on the bed.

The nurse will put stickers on me.

I will put on the mask.

I will sleep a little longer.

When I wake up I get a yummy popsicle.

The nurse will listen to my heart.

The nurse will check my blood pressure again.

The nurse will check my temperature.

The nurse will take out my IV.

The nurse will take off my bracelet.

I get to ride in the wagon or wheelchair to my car. Time to go home!
